Juxtaposing forms of beauty is at the heart of Brian Chaaban's contemplative design. Whether it is organic forms blended with references to brutalism, or nature inspired silhouettes in their softest and hardest forms — these influences make an impression on my line of premium bronzewares and home furnishings. After years of primarily using the lost wax-casting method for developing bronze forms, my work has now expanded to include brass, cast glass, marble, upholstery and lighting elements. The range of new materials reflects the growth of concept within the work I produce, expressing more versatility in design with each new piece.
