

Stay, Steel Sculpture

Topher Gent

Topher Gent is a craft-based designer, researcher, and educator. Through his multifaceted practice, he explores questions of materiality, craft, and design in an increasingly digital and dematerialized world. Based in Providence, Rhode Island, his practice spans furniture and art objects, ceramics, critical craft, and design theory. Gent's career demonstrates a unique synthesis of creative practice, operational strategy, and academic research. His work in design and product development spans luxury goods, furniture design, wearable technology, and material research, always maintaining close proximity to manufacturing at various scales.
